

Where I am a Christian - Living in a Household of Faith

with Dickie and Janice Barr,

Methodist College Belfast - School Chapel

As you enter the front gates of the School, stewards will advise you of Car Parking and the location of the School Chapel

Thursday, November 10th (8pm)

For more info contact Malcolm Kingston - 028 3833 2664

www.cief.net

Church of Ireland
Evangelical Fellowship

“Where I am - Living in the Household of Faith?”

The word 'typical' is very difficult to associate with the term 'family'! The emerging complexity of family makeups, the advancement of technology, growing financial uncertainty, the need for longer educational participation and the regularity of travel over great distances, are just some ingredients contributing to a uniqueness in how each family relates and exists in our current experience. Amidst a fluid society, the issues of identity, belonging and responsibility are all the more important. Families therefore have a vital role in the wider context, as well as for individual people of all generations.

Christian people are all called to be loving, responsible and encouraging members in their family context. Given the immense importance of our role as members of our family, how can God's people best serve within the family context? What aspects of family life ought we to particularly treasure? What distinct characteristics should we demonstrate as Christian families, even amidst complex family dynamics?

Drawing from their personal and professional experience, Dickie and Janice Barr will have much to offer concerning a matter that applies to all God's people in whatever family context we are found. We hope that you will be able to join us for what should be a very thought provoking and applicable evening.

Dickie and Janice Barr are a couple who have track record which sows seeds into future generations. Together they have founded organisations like Care in Crisis and Love for Life both of which seek to bring Kingdom values and a Christian perspective into areas of society which are otherwise left to government bodies. They model what they teach and live out the values they espouse in their own family and come with many years of experience on the topic they will speak about. Together as a family the Barr's continue the legacy of their daughter and sister Charlene through Charlene's Project (www.charlenesproject.org/) which continues to inspire and influence people throughout the world. They have a wonderful vision of how to be a Christian especially in the difficult setting of family life.

Location : Methodist College Belfast,
1 Malone Road, Belfast, BT9 6BY

Church of Ireland
Evangelical Fellowship