

Why I am an Evangelical

Bryan Follis

Bryan Follis

Killyman Parish Hall

29th April, 8.00pm

Enquiries to James Boyd 028 3832 4616

www.cief.net

Church of Ireland
Evangelical Fellowship

Why I am an Evangelical

“My memory is nearly gone ... but I remember two things – that I am a great sinner, and that Christ is a great Saviour” (John Newton on his death bed)

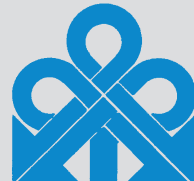

Anglican Evangelicalism as we know it, developed in influence during the 18th Century. Amidst a bland period of church history, evangelicals offered a fresh and vibrant approach to preaching and defining oneself as a Christian. Emphasising the authority of Scripture and the need to personally receive God’s gift of grace through repentance and commitment, evangelicals have not only led countless people into a living faith, but also contributed to many lasting and positive steps in the history of society and local community.

Evangelicalism continues to offer a vital voice within the Anglican Church and Evangelicals still seek to offer a passionate and dynamic approach to Worship, Scripture, Discipleship and Outreach. However, with the growing strain within the Anglican Communion, some now question whether it will be possible to be both Anglican and Evangelical.

The Rector of All Saints’ Parish, University Street, Belfast, Revd Dr Bryan Follis will address the question of being Anglican and Evangelical at our second CIEF meeting in the ‘Why I am’ series. The author of five books including “Anglican Evangelicals”, Bryan will explain why he is an Evangelical and yet also a member of the Church of Ireland.

We hope that you will be able to join us for what promises to be a very affirming evening.

Next event:
Why I am a Christian: Michael Green
1st October @ Church of the Resurrection, QUB

Church of Ireland
Evangelical Fellowship